

The Commonwealth

Fast Facts: The Commonwealth

Overview

The Commonwealth is made up of 52 independent countries that work together to pursue common goals which promote development, democracy and peace. Our combined population is 2.4 billion, of which more than 60 per cent is aged 29 or under.

The Commonwealth spans the globe and includes both advanced economies and developing countries. It encompasses Africa (18 countries), Asia (7), the Caribbean and Americas (13), Europe (3), and the Pacific (11).

The Commonwealth's strength lies in its shared values and diversity. Thirty of our members are small states, usually with a population well under 1.5 million, and 24 members are small island developing states.

The Pacific nation of Nauru is the smallest Commonwealth member country with a population of about 10,000. The most populous member country is India with over 1.2 billion people.

Our organisations

The Commonwealth is connected by an active network of more than 80 intergovernmental, civil society and professional organisations, including:

- The Commonwealth Secretariat - supporting member states
- The Commonwealth Foundation - supporting civil society
- The Commonwealth of Learning - promoting distance learning and education
- The Commonwealth Games Federation - promoting sports development

Find out more: thecommonwealth.org/organisations

Headline facts

The Commonwealth's population is 2.4 billion, of which more than 60 per cent is aged 29 or under.

One in three young people aged between 15 and 29 live in Commonwealth countries: about 640 million out of 1.8 billion.¹

The Commonwealth has observed more than 140 elections in nearly 40 countries since 1980.

The combined gross domestic product of Commonwealth countries is estimated at US$10.4 trillion in 2017 and predicted to reach US$13 trillion in 2020.²

Bilateral costs for trading partners in Commonwealth countries are on average 19 percent less than between those in non-member countries.³

Half of the top 20 global emerging cities are in the Commonwealth: New Delhi, Mumbai, Nairobi, Kuala Lumpur, Bangalore, Johannesburg, Kolkata, Cape Town, Chennai and Dhaka.⁴

Many small and developing Commonwealth countries are among those with the lowest ecological footprints worldwide.⁵

Commonwealth countries are among the highest performing in the Ibrahim Index of African Governance, and make up 7 of the top 10 nations.⁶

In Sub-Saharan Africa, Commonwealth countries make up 7 of the top 10 highest performing countries for gender equality.⁷

¹ Commonwealth Secretariat Youth Development Index 2016

² Commonwealth Secretariat calculations using International Monetary Fund's World Economic Outlook

³ Ibid

⁴ Cities in low- and middle- income countries predicted to become global leaders in terms of business activity, human capital and innovation in 10-20 years AT Kearney Emerging Cities Outlook 2014

⁵ Bangladesh, Rwanda, Pakistan, Malawi, Zambia, Mozambique, India, Kenya, Cameroon, Sierra Leone, Sri Lanka and Tanzania in top 30 for lowest footprint per capita WWF - Happy Planet Index

⁶ The Commonwealth scores 60.0 next to an average Africa score of 50.0. Top ranked Commonwealth countries are Mauritius, Botswana, Seychelles, Namibia, South Africa, Ghana and Rwanda Ibrahim Index of African Governance 2016

⁷ Rwanda, Namibia, South Africa, Mozambique, Tanzania, Botswana and Lesotho Global Gender Gap Report 2016

The Commonwealth

Fast Facts: The Commonwealth

Our values

History and membership

The modern Commonwealth was formed on 26 April 1949 when the leaders of Australia, Canada, India, New Zealand, Pakistan, South Africa, Sri Lanka and the United Kingdom adopted the London Declaration. The declaration defined the Commonwealth as a “free association” of independent member countries.

All members have an equal say, regardless of their size or economic stature. This ensures that even the smallest countries have a voice in shaping the Commonwealth. In the past two decades, countries which have joined include Mozambique, Cameroon and Rwanda.

Commonwealth Charter

The Commonwealth’s principles and values have been agreed over the years by our Heads of Government and articulated in communiqués such as the Harare Declaration and the Singapore Declaration.

On 14 December 2012, leaders agreed the Commonwealth Charter which sets out 16 core shared principles to which all member countries have committed. The charter covers:

- Article 1. Democracy
- Article 2. Human Rights
- Article 3. International Peace and Security
- Article 4. Tolerance, Respect and Understanding
- Article 5. Freedom of Expression
- Article 6. Separation of Powers
- Article 7. Rule of Law
- Article 8. Good Governance
- Article 9. Sustainable Development
- Article 10. Protecting the Environment
- Article 11. Health, Education, Food and Shelter
- Article 12. Gender Equality
- Article 13. Young People in the Commonwealth
- Article 14. The Needs of Small States
- Article 15. The Needs of Vulnerable States
- Article 16. The Role of Civil Society

We the People of the Commonwealth

“Recognising that in an era of changing economic circumstances and uncertainty, new trade and economic patterns, unprecedented threats to peace and security, and a surge in popular demands for democracy, human rights and broadened economic opportunities, the potential of and need for the Commonwealth - as a compelling force for good and as an effective network for co-operation and for promoting development - has never been greater.”

thecommonwealth.org/charter

Commonwealth Day

Commonwealth Day is celebrated by young people, schools, communities and civil society organisations on the second Monday in March every year. It is an opportunity to promote understanding on Commonwealth values.

In 2017, Commonwealth Day will be marked on 13 March.

A Peace-building Commonwealth

The Commonwealth’s annual theme for 2017 is A Peace-building Commonwealth

Announcing the theme, the Secretary-General stated: “At a time of increasing instability and uncertainty in the world, the Commonwealth family of nations in its rich diversity becomes an ever more-needed source of strength and hope for all its members.”

‘A Peace-building Commonwealth’ is a natural follow-on from this year’s theme of ‘An Inclusive Commonwealth’, and reaffirms the Commonwealth Charter principle that “international peace and security, sustainable economic growth and development and the rule of law are essential to the progress and prosperity of all.”

The Commonwealth

Fast Facts: The Commonwealth

Our structure

Head of the Commonwealth

The Head of the Commonwealth is Queen Elizabeth II. The Queen, who has fulfilled her symbolic role as Head for over 60 years, is also head of state of sixteen Commonwealth countries; other member countries are either republics or have their own monarchy.

Commonwealth Secretary-General

The Commonwealth Secretary-General promotes and protects the Commonwealth's fundamental values, represents the Commonwealth globally, and manages the Commonwealth Secretariat. She or he is appointed by leaders and can serve a maximum of two four-year terms.

Commonwealth Secretary-General Patricia Scotland, who was born in Dominica, became Secretary-General on 1 April 2016 having been appointed by Commonwealth Heads of Government at their meeting in Malta in November 2015.

The Commonwealth Secretariat

The Commonwealth Secretariat works with governments to deliver on priorities agreed by Commonwealth Heads of Government. We bring policy-makers together and provide guidance and technical assistance to member countries.

Based at Marlborough House in London, the Secretariat is staffed by professionals from across the Commonwealth. Our programme work encompasses areas such as democracy, rule of law, human rights, governance, economic and social development, small states and youth development.

The Commonwealth Secretariat, alongside the Secretary-General and three Deputy-Secretaries General, represents the interests of member countries, especially small and developing states who can sometimes be overshadowed by larger, more powerful countries.

In 2015 the Commonwealth Secretariat celebrated its 50th anniversary, having been established in 1965.

Heads of Government summit

Every two years the leaders of our 52 countries gather for the Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM). A major global event, this intergovernmental summit is an opportunity for Heads to address shared challenges and set new priorities. Decisions are reached by consensus with statements reflecting the views of all those present.

Responsibility for hosting the summit is shared by member countries. The next Heads of Government Meeting will be hosted by the United Kingdom in 2018. Past meetings were in Malta (2015), Sri Lanka (2013), Australia (2011), Trinidad and Tobago (2009), Uganda (2007).

Ministerial meetings

Government ministers responsible for foreign affairs, finance, law, youth development, women's affairs, health and education meet regularly to discuss issues of shared concern and agree areas for action.

Policy priorities agreed at Commonwealth meetings will typically be promoted by member governments at other international forums and intergovernmental organisations, such as the African Union and the Caribbean Community.

Ministerial Action Group

The Commonwealth Ministerial Action Group deals with serious or persistent violations of the Commonwealth's shared principles. It is made up of a rotating group of foreign ministers from nine countries.

The Group engages proactively and constructively with countries where Commonwealth values are at risk. It meets to assess the nature of any contraventions and works with countries to agree on a course of action to restore democracy and constitutional rule.

Suspension is one of the actions that can be taken by the Group. This means that a country is prevented from taking part in Commonwealth activities and it will no longer be eligible for technical assistance. No country has ever been expelled from the Commonwealth.